

DEATH OF GEO. C. BASS IS STILL A MYSTERY

The Coroner's Jury Exonerates the Sheriff's Posse.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
DUNN, N. C., June 24.—The mysterious and appalling death of George C. Bass, which occurred yesterday morning, while assisting the sheriff and his posse to apprehend the escaped convict, Smith, is yet shrouded in deep mystery and doubt as to who fired the fatal shot. The coroner, Dr. J. E. Cavenatis, of Lillington, began holding an inquest here last night at 7:30 o'clock, which lasted until this morning at 10 o'clock. The jury was composed of the following men: Mayor E. L. C. McNeely, J. D. Ezzell, E. W. Harris, M. F. Galney, J. E. Ligon. The report of the jury is that George C. Bass came to his death by a gunshot wound caused by large shot, in the hands of some person or persons unknown. In the post-mortem examination twenty-three shots were found; of this number fourteen were buckshot and the remainder small ones, or No. 1. The small shot took effect in the back of the head and neck; the large ones from between the shoulders down. Of the posse only one person carried a shotgun; this was carried by the sheriff. His gun was loaded with No. 3 shot; those small ones found in the dead body were No. 1.

The sheriff made oath before the jury that he fired only one shot, and that at an elevated angle. The testimony is to the effect that as many as five or more shots were fired.

Inquiries from the above facts and report of the jury that Sheriff Pearson and his posse are exonerated beyond any doubt of any blame whatsoever.

FASHION HINTS.

LADIES' WRAPPER OR TEA GOWN,
With Shaped Yoke and Two Styles of Sleeve.

No. 3155.—The woman who wishes to look her prettiest in the home and to be entirely in harmony with her surroundings should choose the delightful house-gown shown in the illustration. The original, which formed part of the outfit of a June bride, was developed in pale blue Nun's veiling, with yoke and sleeves of allover Valenciennes lace. Made thus it has all the elaborate effect of the richest tea gown. For ordinary housewearer it may, however, be made of the plainest material without any trimming or elaboration whatever and the plain puff sleeve with a deep cuff be used.
The design is suitable for making up in lawn, dimities, challons, Nun's veiling and soft silks, and may be made with or without the lining.
The pattern is cut in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches, bust measure and requires 6 1/2 yards of 36-inch material with 11-14 yards of contrasting material and 2 yards of lining.
These patterns can be gotten at The Cohen Company for 10c.—Adv.

PENSIONING OF MOTHERS

By ELLA WHITFIELD WILCOX.

THE subject of pensioning mothers is being exploited by Frances Marion Norton, novelist and reformer.

Many years ago, before Soro-sis was a club, Mrs. Norton agitated this subject. Speaking of the latter recently, she said:

Our idea was to give financial aid in extreme cases and to help the conditions in the home entailed special hardship upon the wife and mother. There was a law intended to punish saloonkeepers who sold liquor to minors or habitual drunkards, but women were afraid to make the complaints because of the abuse to which their husbands subjected them if they were found out. The more children a woman had the more helpless she became, every added child making her more absolutely subject to the whims, caprices and oftentimes cruelty of the husband.

The only solution of the problem which we saw then, and the only solution which we see now, is the one proposed; that is, a pension from the State to each mother upon the birth of a child, not a pension which should enable the father to shirk all responsibility, but enough to insure both mother and child from actual suffering should the recalcitrant father ignore his manifest duty.

While there is much to be commended in this proposition, there should be some provision made to prevent worthless husbands from propagating their kind at the expense of the State. Here are a few suggestions:

When absolute moral worthlessness could be proven against a man, the birth of more than three children should constitute a legal separation for the wife.

To supplement the law of pension for the mother, there should be a benefit law for the "best husbands and fathers."

Good men who filled the most important positions with dignity and pride, and who were loved and respected by wives and children, should be pensioned by the State after the birth of a third child.

But the money should be held in trust for the child.

The State should provide for children born out of wedlock, and the fathers of such children should be prevented by the laws of the land from holding any position of prominence in the Government.

The mothers of such children are obliged to suffer penalties imposed by nature and society; the laws of the land should impose the penalties upon fathers.

Meantime the innocent offspring should be supported and educated until the age of sixteen by the Government.

Fathers and mothers producing the most perfect specimens of children, physically and mentally, should receive some special honor from the State. "The Right Royal Order of Parenthood" might be an excellent one to found, and belong to it might be made a mark of great distinction, with an old-age pension attached.

It would arouse in men and women perhaps higher ideals of fatherhood and motherhood, and stimulate them to self-control and self-denial, the two first requisites for good parents.

It seems astonishing that our orthodox church society makes no effort to organize and establish better conditions for propagating the species.

Efforts of this kind have been made and have succeeded wonderfully, so far as the improvements of the species is concerned, by the Quakers, the Unitarians and the Mormons. Both societies held motherhood in high esteem, and used every method and effort to produce fine children.

The children born in both organizations, taken on the average, were far superior to those born in the outside world among the masses of people in any ordinary community.

This was because mothers were regarded with reverence and protected from every possible trouble and strain.

Mrs. Norton's idea of a pension for mothers is good, as far as it goes, but it should be made a mark of great distinction, with an old-age pension attached, before it can bring any good results to the world.

Miller School Notes.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
MILLER SCHOOL, VA., June 24.—Mr. John D. Burrall, of Richmond, Va., is a guest of Professor Stonewall Tompkins.

Miss Virginia Vawter and Miss James Elliott Vawter are guests of their brother, Professor C. K. Vawter, Jr., Blacksburg, Va.

Mr. Charles T. Jennings is private secretary to Professor Stonewall Tompkins. Mr. Jennings has resigned the position of baker. He is going to take dentistry. With all of his getting and taking it is hoped that he will not take a false set.

The entire apparel department is now sitting in "back cloth and ashes" because they will not eat any more Goode bread. But if eating the new bread causes our neighbors to offend, we will eat no more bread, but soup, as long as the world stands.

Owing to the intensely hot weather for the past week, the flies are not only a "drug on the market," but they are tickling baldheads and sticking as close as Robert's nose to the faces of every one. We must be in the land of Egypt, but it is too hot to make brick and carry the straw.

Trolley Trip to Petersburg.
On account of the severe storm yesterday afternoon, the trolley was not offered by the employees of Whitte and Petersburg was postponed until next Tuesday night. Many have already purchased tickets for the trolley ride, and these will be accepted Tuesday night.

On Tuesday night, tickets will be on sale at the car.

Why We Recommend Orline To Cure Drunkenness.

In taking the agency for Orline, the liquor habit could be thoroughly eradicated from the system. It is an article of merit, and that the company, which is located in Washington, D. C., deals in a pure and honest product.

"If the cure is not made the money will be refunded."

In the numerous cases have come to our knowledge, that have been cured of the horrible liquor habit by this meritorious article, which eradicates the nervous system and destroys the craving for whiskey, beer or other alcoholic stimulants. Orline is prepared in two forms. I should like to give you the full particulars of its knowledge. It can be put into coffee or food, as it is tasteless, colorless and odorless.

We think that when the excessive drinker is approached properly he will be willing to be cured. If he consents, purchase Orline No. 2, which is put up in pill form. Either form sells at $1 per package. Step into our store and receive full information regarding Orline, the remedy that really cures the liquor habit. If you will write to the Orline Company, Inc., Washington, D. C., they will send you free a book on "Drunkenness." In a thin paper wrapper.

We have great confidence that Orline cures the drink habit, and highly recommend it to you.

are surf bathing, sailing, fishing, buggy and hay rides, tennis, pool, etc.

Mr. Ira F. Burton is the manager.

The New Grand Hotel.

The new Grand Hotel, at Broadway and Thirty-first Street is New York's most home-like hotel. It is here that the consolation prize party will make their headquarters.

The location is of the very best in the city. One block from the Sixth Avenue Elevators and but four short blocks from the Underground Railway, in the center of the shopping and theatre district.

Within ten minutes' ride from all steamship landings, ferries and railway stations; 400 rooms and 300 baths; every room lighted by natural light, with perfect ventilation.

Mr. John H. Langton is manager.

Mountain Lake Hotel.

Mountain Lake is sometimes called the "Silver Gem of the Alleghenies." It is on one of the highest mountains in Virginia, about eight miles from Pembroke. The beauties of Mountain Lake defy description. Near the margin and overlooking this picturesque lake of the mountains is the hotel, a large and commodious building, with over four hundred feet of veranda, making a lovely promenade.

The hotel table is supplied with the best and most wholesome food the market affords, which is prepared by the hotel's chef, and can be obtained in its entirety department. The hotel has its own dairy, from which fresh, pure milk and cream can always be obtained, and fresh vegetables are secured daily from the valley below.

The Mecklenburg.

The Mecklenburg Hotel, a mineral springs at Chase City are in the "none better" class.

The Mecklenburg Hotel is not only of modern construction, but its interior arrangements, its public and private rooms, its sanitary and culinary equipment, all of the modern methods of comfort, health and convenience.

Extensive verandas and sun parlors add to the attractiveness and comfort of the building. The cuisine maintained upon the standard of the best city hotels.

Buckroe Beach Hotel.

The more fact that Mr. Charles W. Rex is this season the manager of Buckroe Beach Hotel and the various amusement enterprises to be found at that popular resort, is enough to assure every one that both the hotel and adjacent attractions are run to please the many patrons of this well known resort. Bowling alleys, pool and billiards, an excellent orchestra, a cozy little theatre, bathing, boating, dancing and a hundred varied forms of diversion make Buckroe desirable to thousands throughout Virginia.

Ocean View Hotel.

"The Atlantic City of the South" is the phrase that has been applied to Ocean View. The Casino, under the management of Mr. Otto Walter, the hotel, managed by Mr. Charles H. Consolo, of the Monticello Hotel, at Norfolk; the excellent bathing beach, splendid fishing, close proximity to Norfolk and many other features make Ocean View the great seaside resort that it is.

Princess Anne Hotel.

The only resort in Virginia, fronting directly at the shores of the broad Atlantic, Virginia Beach, every mile of its broad sands full of interest. Cape Henry, with its two lighthouses, is near by. The Princess Anne Hotel is first-class in every respect. Rooms include bathing, fishing, sailing, rowing, driving and bicycling, while for the young folks there are provided a toboggan slide, merry-go-round and other innocent modes of recreation for juvenile visitors. Along the edge of the ocean there is built a wide and substantial board walk, connecting hotels, cottages and amusement places and offering a fine promenade of several miles in length.

Mt. Elliott Springs.

Mount Elliott Springs Hotel is just the place to go to the rest and a good time. In Augusta county, only a short ride from Staunton, right in the most beautiful part of Virginia, it is an ideal spot. The hotel is comfortable and the table bountifully supplied. Mr. John E. M. Hall, of the New Willard, Washington, is the manager, and everything possible is done for the comfort and enjoyment of the guests of the Mount Elliott Springs Hotel.
